Elections.

All political parties are obsolete.

Local, judicial and central elections take place as usual.

Candidates for all elected offices are citizenry constituency candidates standing on their own self-sovereignty representing their chosen citizenry constituency.

Constituencies are based on population size of each electorate.

No party votes. Just direct votes for each citizenry constituency candidate standing for office.

Each eligible citizen casts their vote based on their electorate constituency and or type of vote applicable to central, local and judicial branch elections.

Each vote regardless of the election type is a direct vote by each constituent. All votes are worth the same. 1 citizen = 1 vote.

1 vote per person for each election cycle. Votes are secret, universal and equal.

In cases of coercion, et cetera and so on, Legal Freedoms apply.

Governments cannot be formed based on coalitions, cartels, factions, united fronts, et cetera.

Government consists of all elected officials regardless of their policy and or political views.

There is no such a thing as majority and or minority governments including any of their expressions.

Government is not a dichotomy of opposition parties vs governing parties.

Elected central seat (legislative) officials work together until consensus is reached by a 90% supermajority vote. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Elected central seat (legislative) citizenry constituency candidates are randomly allocated to fill positions throughout and across jurisdictions of central governance. Meaning, 1 citizenry constituency = 1 jurisdiction.

Elected central seat (legislative) citizenry constituency officials positions rotate every year. Elected central seat (legislative) citizenry constituency officials randomly rotate positions 3 times during each term.

Governance is not based on quorum, instead, it is based on all elected officials coming together. Elected officials cast votes themselves and are present during the plenary sessions, no proxy votes allowed, et cetera.

All elected officials take place in the management of the state and government level office accordingly.

Elected central, local and judicial branch officials distribute the office among all elected candidates for each constituency based on their representative position.

Executive officials are randomly chosen for cabinet roles from the pool of elected central seat (legislative) officials and are rotated annually. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Having said this, all elected central seat (legislative) officials are trained in cabinet roles by the executive office to ensure excellence standards. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Once an elected central seat (legislative) official is chosen for cabinet roles, the same elected candidate cannot hold cabinet positions again for current or any future terms.

There are only 5 departments within the executive branch i.e. (1) Department of State or Foreign Office, (2) Department of Justice, (3) Treasury, (4) Department of Defense and Self-Defense and (5) Heritage and Legacy Office.

Thus, there are 5 secretaries forming the executive office cabinet. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Armed forces stakeholders clause. No citizen with such a status can stand for elected office unless they have been retired and or released from military service and gained a veteran status for at least 10 consecutive years. This includes reservists, volunteers, conflict of interests, et cetera.

All other existing former departments are obsolete. All the remaining agencies required for the administration of the state are downsized by at least 80% and attached respectively to the 5 executive departments. For example, (1) tax office is attached to the Treasury, (2) formerly known as department of domestic affairs functions are distributed across the 5 departments based on specific needs and requirements.

The obsolescence process applies accordingly to all other former departments and agencies. In case of the need of any former entity, department and agency to remain, given their heritage, legacy and relevance i.e. health, education, et cetera, such functions are distributed across the 3 levels of governance in the current system based on requirements respectively.

The citizens declare that the Obsolescence and Transition Oversight Committee is formed consisting of 20% of elected citizenry constituency candidates from central seat (legislative) branch, randomly chosen and equal in status, to ensure a smooth transition to our constitutional order and restore the functions of these obsolete former departments, agencies and entities back to the citizenry.

Transition into obsolescence directive applicable to any former entity, department and agency are completed within 24 months of the founding of The Republic of Planet Earth. Having said this, the Obsolescence and Transition Oversight Committee remains to phase out all future obsolete functions and matters of law.

Central, local and judicial branch officials are elected by the constituency i.e. citizenry of The Republic of Planet Earth.

In case of ties for any elected official position, subsequent rounds take place until tie is broken and a clear winner is declared.

Referendums and or petitions of any matter of law including central, local and judicial branches are called upon by citizenry directly when 10% of any citizenry constituency petitions accordingly. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Then a yes or no direct vote election date is chosen within 30 days. Applicable to all citizenry of The Republic of Planet Earth. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Removal of elected officials is called upon by the citizenry directly when 10% of any constituency petitions accordingly. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Removed officials undergo due process of law in public court cases regarding, breaches, offenses, crimes and abuse of office, et cetera.

Taxation.

Individual income tax.

$$0 - $30,003 = 0\%$

$$30,004 - $100,000 = 10\%$

$$100,001 - $200,001 = 12.5\%$

$$200,002+ = 15\%$

Goods and services tax.

Tax-free exemptions apply to certain goods and services for a period of up to 24 months, based on approval by central seat (legislative) branch after the 90% supermajority vote threshold is met. Then, 5% rate applies to such goods and services. Infinite Veto Powers Freedoms apply.

Corporations, other entities including listed and or unlisted, et cetera and so on. Individual income tax applies.

Not-for-profits, foundations, social enterprises, religious institutions, et cetera and so on. Individual income tax applies.

All other taxes are obsolete i.e. capital gains, inheritance, duty stamps, customs, et cetera and so on, no exceptions.

Allocation of taxes.

Each tax number holder has the Freedoms to allocate contributions accordingly. Thus, distributing contributions across chosen government spending and investments buckets.

As per budgetary best practices, there are minimum quotas required for specific buckets and ceilings.

Tax number holders have access to an app where they allocate when, where, how, what and why contributions are allocated for expenditure. For example, a tax number holder can allocate 50% of contributions to be spent and invested in education including comprehensive breakdowns for each category for example of that 50%, 20% goes to primary schools in their electorate area, 10% goes to funding a university of their choice and 30% goes to high schools.

Tax number holders allocate specific contribution amounts to buckets of their choice. For example, $50 for new biology books, et cetera and so on.

These Freedoms and obligations are bound by law for each tax number holder.

Once minimum quotas and ceiling are reached, tax number holders allocate remaining funds to other areas of their own choosing and interests.

The tax office of the Treasury has no say on who, what, when, why, where and how funds are allocated by contributors.

Quotas and ceilings are chosen by elected representatives in accordance with budgetary rules and Treasury guidance.

Budgetary rules.

Government cannot propose, accept or run budgetary deficits unless the central seat (legislative) body approves it with a 90% supermajority vote due to justifiable cause i.e. emergencies, security, et cetera. Such periods cannot exceed 24 months within 10 years and cannot overlap with consecutive fiscal years. During such periods, annual fiscal deficits cannot exceed 2.5% of taxation revenue for each fiscal year.

The Annual Budget Oversight Committee is formed consisting of 20% of elected citizenry constituency candidates from central seat (legislative) branch, randomly chosen and equal in status, to ensure appropriate allocation, distribution, administration and management of funds.

Government debt cannot exceed 20% of gross domestic product ratio ceiling.

Government fund debt (if any whatsoever) with bonds issued by the citizenry.

This is a transparent process and all debt acquired by the government is in accordance with financial guidelines within our own sovereign legal framework.

The Treasury contributes between 2% and 5% of total taxation revenue excluding any surpluses toward paying down government debt (if any whatsoever) every fiscal year.
